

Learning Activity:

LEARNING OBJECTIVES	EXPANDED CONTENT OUTLINE
The learner will be able to describe the research study methodology of an Advanced Practice Nurse (APN) led educational intervention for replication.	This author will share the results of the pre and post-test study design with participants in a poster presentation format.
The learner will be able to describe if there are relationships between the variables of knowledge, perceived barriers, de-escalation behaviors, comfort, willingness to confront PIVA, personal and professional characteristics of medical-surgical nurses pre/post education.	This author will share the results of the pre and post-test study design with participants in a poster presentation format.
The learner will be able to determine if this is an educational intervention that can be deployed in similar or disparate healthcare environments.	This author will share the didactic and video simulation curriculum used for this APN-led, educational intervention.