Learning Activity:

LEARNING OBJECTIVES	EXPANDED CONTENT OUTLINE
The learner will be able to list factors associated with balance self-efficacy in older adults	factors that are associated with balance self-efficacy will be discussed. This will include both those that were statistically significant and those that were not. This will provide the basis for recommending future studies and implications for nursing the learner will be able to describe the population of older adults in America	Demographic characteristics of study participants will be discussed. This is provide the audience with better understanding of who older adults in America are